John Solomon returning to Washington Times (Shared by Lindel Hutson)

Dear Washington Guardian Reader:

As you may have recently heard, the Washington Guardian has been acquired by The Washington Times and I have returned to the Times to be its editor. The good news is the important work of accountability reporting we started at the Guardian is alive and well under the Times brand. We're publishing the Golden Hammer every Friday and are holding public officials accountable all week along.

We're going to keep in contact with you by email, just like we did at the Guardian. We'll be sending a once-a-week newsletter with the best investigative reporting of the Times. It will include the Hammer as well as other exposes on waste, fraud and abuse, political ethics and national security. You can see an example of it here. If you have any questions, please click here.

Thanks for your support and interest in investigative reporting. The Times, armed with the new Guardian resources, is committed to accountability reporting that guards your money, your freedoms and your security.

John Solomon
